

ILLUSTRATION A

Model 8 Three-Magazine Linotype, upon which are based all detail illustrations in these lessons.

STANDARD TEXTBOOKS ON PRINTING

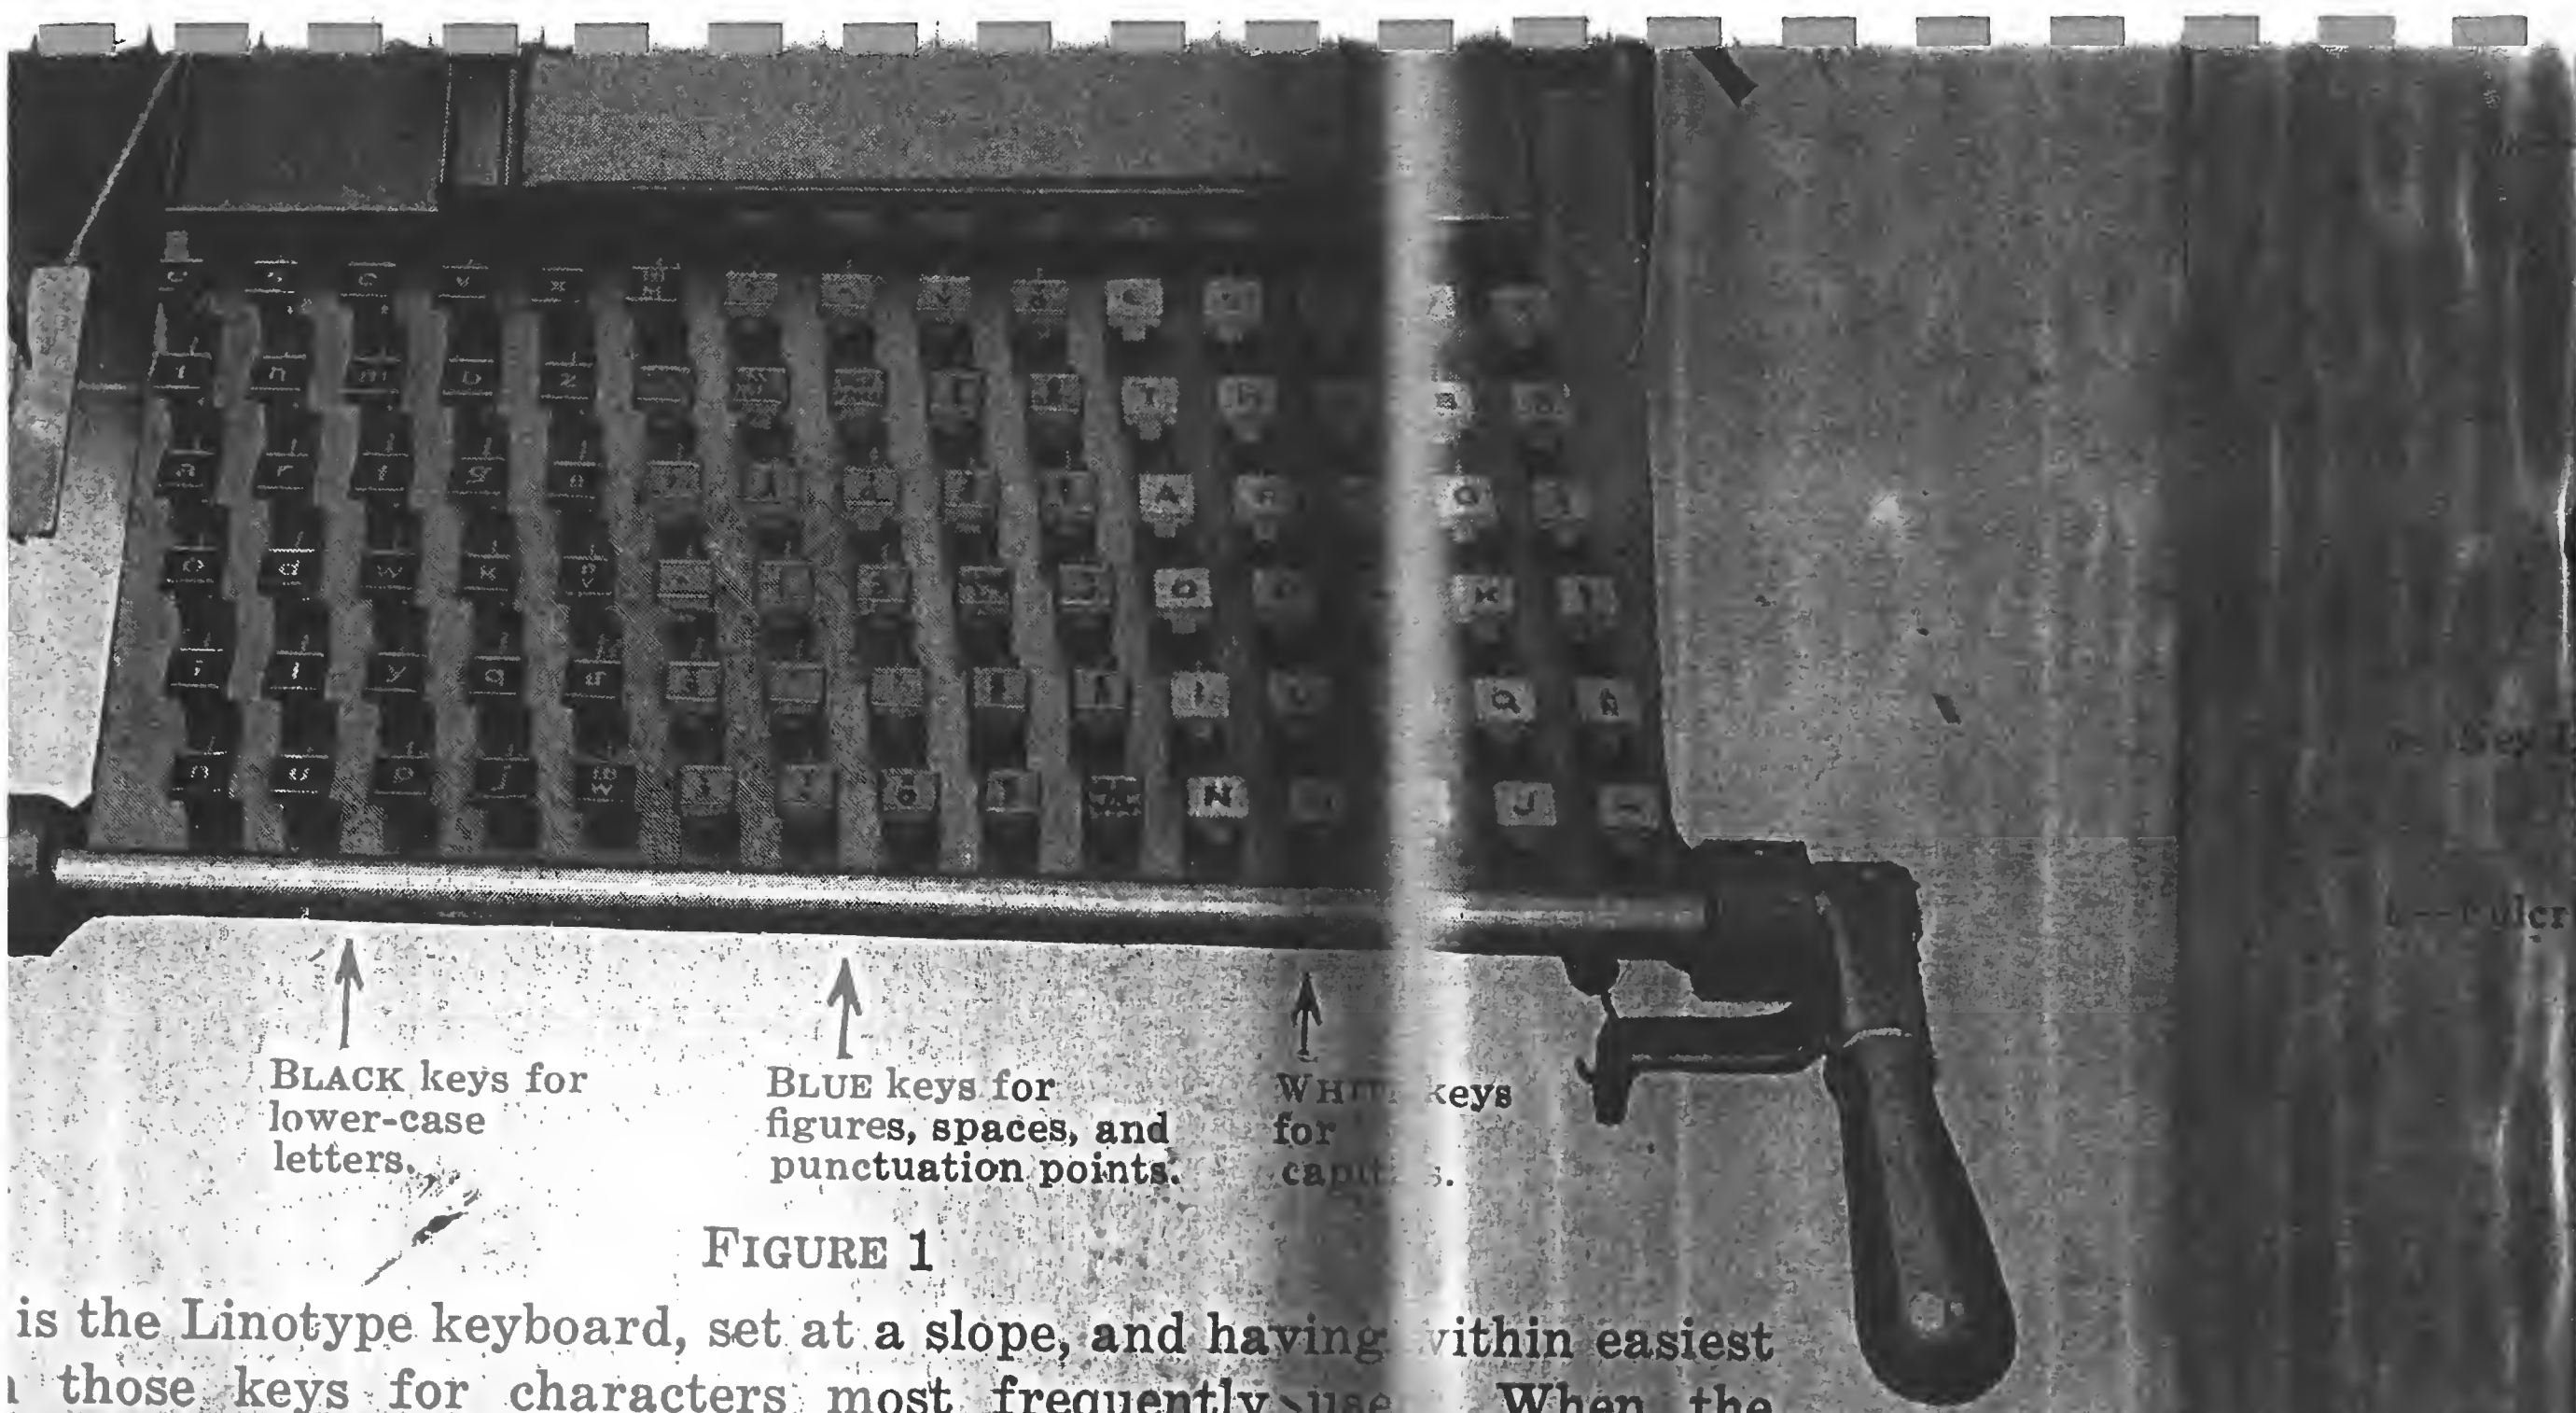

LINOTYPE MECHANISM

By RAYMOND MEANS and ALVIN G. SWANK

*Instructors, U. T. A. School of Printing
Indianapolis, U. S. A.*

CHICAGO
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
UNITED TYPOTHAETAE OF AMERICA
1926

↑
BLACK keys for lower-case letters.

↑
BLUE keys for figures, spaces, and punctuation points.

↑
WHITE keys for capitals.

FIGURE 1

is the Linotype keyboard, set at a slope, and having within easiest those keys for characters most frequently used. When the operator touches one of these keys, the desired character is immediately released. Or if he touches the spaceband key, a spaceband is released and dropped.